A BRAVE ATTACK.

It is a brave man who waits until his enemy has left the country and then unloosens a disgusting tirade of abuse that is fairly nauseating to the nostrils of this community. The lament of the editor of the evening paper brings to mind a remark made on the street yesterday by a prominent business man of this city, who stated that he would rather be attacked than complimented by the paper in question, for an attack showed that he had been instrumental in securing some concession that would result in the public good, while a compliment would cause a discussion as to the price paid for the write-up.

During the eight years that the Bonanza has been in existence, we have followed one policy, and that was whenever we had anything to say, we never waited until the person had left the city before making the attack. We were taught journalism in the old school and our first instructions were never to put anything in print that we would not say to the face of the party attacked.

But the old teachers have passed away and are being rapidly forgotten. The latter day ethics of journalism have changed, and if the sample as exhibited in last evening's paper, is what the world is coming to, we feel tempted to lay aside our pen.

The idea of descending to the point where personalities have to be indulged in to carry on a fight, appears to us as the last resource; a step that resembles the dying wall of a mangy coyote, a cry for succor after being abandoned by the remainder of the pack.

The article in last night's paper referred to R. P. Dunlap as a party who paid no taxes in Tonopah. We are not taking up the fight of Mr. Dunlap, for that gentleman is capable of taking care of himself, but we cannot let the statement pass unnoticed, knowing that Mr. Dunlap is out of the city and unable to reply. It may be true that Mr. Dunlap is not a taxpayer, but the company which he represents, the Montana-Tonopah Mining company, is one of the largest taxpayers in the city. If the appellation of not being a taxpayer was to be placed on those who would come under this classification, it would affect a large majority of the most prominent citizens of Tonopah. And yet these men are the representatives of the largest concerns in the camp. Companies that pay large sums yearly into the coffers of the county treasury in the shape of taxes. The welfare of the community is as dear to them as it is to the party who pays a tax only on his house and furniture.

If the records of the town were gone over it would be found that these men have always played a prominent part in the affairs of Tonopah; were always working for the advancement of the city and when donations were called for, responded handsomely. But how different it is with the person who calls himself the editor of the evening newspaper. We remember him as having contributed to the fund for the entertainment of the visiting members of the American Mining congress. And we remember him refusing to pay the amount set opposite his name on the subscription list. Pardon us for indulging in personalities, but the disease, it appears, is contagious. As it is it appears to be a question of whose ox was gored.

On second thought it comes to us that it is an error to answer the article attacking Mr. Dunlap, for it is an assured fact that not more than a dozen people read the story, and those who did laid aside the paper with a feeling of disgust, and picked up a copy of the War Cry, which they perused to take the nasty taste out of their mouths.

BOOKS THAT DEFY DESCRIPTION BEING MADE

Said a visitor yesterday: "The completeness of the bindery plant in connection with the Bonanza amazed me, for I had no idea that such an up-to-date proposition could be found out here on the desert."

This is the statement we hear from every person who visits our binding plant. We are up-to-date and want the public to know it. Any time that you have a little leisure, call around and we will show you how books are made.

Since the bindery business was entered into by the Bonanza, we have been making books of all descriptions, not only for the Tonopah mining companies, but for Goldfield concerns. These latter are people who patronize home industry. As there is no binding plant in Goldfield, they sought the nearest shop, which is Tonopah.

Call around and take a look at the work we are turning out. Books that defy description and which are guaranteed to stand hard usage for 100 years, are our specialty.

IT PAYS TO PLACE YOUR AD WITH US

It always pays to advertise, as is evidenced by the following little story from Ellendale:

A certain farmer had studied long and earnestly into the goods offered by Montgomery Ward & Co., and picked out a $50 order. The next morning he read one of the Tonopah ads in the columns of the Bonanza and in the afternoon came into town and purchased $60 worth from a local merchant.

Better goods than the mail order houses handle can always be purchased from your home merchant, and this at a lower price, if you will only call on them. The fact is that the merchants are just a little bit difficult about telling the public just what they have. They forget that it pays to advertise.
